Swimming Pool Fall Injuries

Now that summer is here, it is not surprising that everybody is heading to their local swimming pools. Yet, sometimes due to the negligence of property managers, lifeguards, or due to lack of adequate maintenance, serious accidents and injuries can occur in the blink of an eye - accidents that are completely preventable with ordinary care.

Each year in the U.S., over 1,000 children die and 5,000 others are hospitalized due to pool-related accidents. In fact, swimming pool related accidents are the second leading cause of death for children under the age of 14.

At Carpey Law, we want you and your family to enjoy the summer free of injury and worry. Although we know that you are already doing everything possible to be safe, here is a friendly reminder of certain risks to look out for while enjoying your backyard or neighborhood pool (courtesy of the Consumer Product Safety Commission):

- Do not use flotation devices as a substitute for adult supervision.
- Never leave a child unattended near or around a pool. During parties, designate someone as the pool supervisor to act as a full-time lifeguard.
- If a child is missing, check the pool first. Every second counts in preventing death or disability.
- Instruct babysitters about potential pool hazards and about the use of safety devices, such as door alarms and latches.
- Keep rescue and safety equipment by the pool. Be sure a phone is poolside with emergency numbers posted.
- Remove all toys in and around the pool when not being used. Toys can draw young children to the pool.
- Never prop open the gate to a pool.

Learning and practicing pool safety is necessary to ensure everyone has a good time but remains safe. We hope you all enjoy the rest of the summer and our warm weather. It’s a wonderful time to spend quality time with your family laughing and playing.

Neck Pain & The Personal Injury Case

Neck pain is one of the most common reasons to visit a physical therapist, with approximately 20% of the population experiencing neck pain at some point in their life. For a majority of people, neck pain is not caused by serious pathology and can be readily treated by a physical therapist. This is good news because research has shown that people with neck pain often experience quicker improvements in the short-term and long-term in areas such as pain, disability and perceived recovery when working with a physical therapist.

Generally, physical therapists focus on different techniques during therapy. Your treatment may include a manual therapy, a resistance exercise program, a progressive aerobic exercise routine, postural re-education and education on your pain/condition. You may also receive a home exercise program to empower you to self-manage and treat your pain. Each aspect of your care will likely be uniquely tailored to your ability, goals and interests.
