Exploding Grills: Recall Notice

Almost 20,000 grills have been recalled due to propane explosions. . Liquid propane gas used for these grills can pool inside when the lid is closed. This accumulation leads to a fire and burn hazard that can erupt and severely injure anyone nearby.

Paradise Grills, a Florida-based company, stated that it received two reports of their grills exploding, causing severe injuries to the consumers. The recalled models span sales from January 2009 to December 2020 and include these models

- GX-3, GX-4, GX-5, GX-6, GX-7, GX-8, GX-9, GX-10, GX-11 GX12 and GX14
- Tahiti
- Fiji
- Tropicana
- Aruba 6 and Aruba 8

Consumers should immediately contact Paradise Grills to receive free shipment of the vent and installation instructions. Customers will be reimbursed for the cost of hiring a qualified professional or technician to do the repair and install the vent.

If you or a loved one was injured by an exploding gas grill, please contact our office immediately to discuss your potential claim.

Pizza Soup

"I make many soups, but this one is still the most requested one I get from my family. It's been my son's absolute favorite for well over 20 years!"

- Brian Fowler

INGREDIENTS

- 8 cans of tomato soup
- Same amount of water as cans of soup
- 3 tsp garlic powder
- 3 tsp onion powder
- 2 T oregano
- 2 T basil leaves
- 1 lb. Italian sausage
- 1 large sweet onion
- 1 lb. pepperoni link (Bridgeford works great - slice it length ways in quarters, then dice into chunks)
- 2 T minced garlic

- 12-16 oz. portobello mushrooms (sautéed in olive oil with salt/pepper - get them nice and brown with a little chew and they're done)
- Optional: 6 oz. sliced black olives
- Optional: 1 C diced green peppers

Note: you can use basically anything you would use on pizza in this, like banana peppers, jalepenos, garlic cloves, etc. You can even add more sausage or pepperoni to your preference!

INSTRUCTIONS

1. mix soup, water, spices and heat (not to boil)
2. cook sausage, ground to small pieces, add onion and sauté until translucent. Then add minced garlic for about 2 minutes (not enough to burn it)

3. dice pepperoni into smaller 1/2 inch pieces (roughly)

Common Conditions After An Accident

If you've been in an accident and are suffering from any of these conditions, give us a call. We can help. 610.834-6030.

BRINGING IN THE EXPERTS

In the course of litigation, opposing insurance companies and their lawyers attempt to discredit our client's injuries or what our client's say about how the accident happened. It happens all the time. Their job is to diminish the value of our client's case. How do we combat that? We not only do an exhaustive investigation, (for example, getting witness statements, photographs of the scene, medical reports on the injuries sustained), but in many cases we get specific experts to respond in writing to what the opposing side is trying to say about our client's case.

Here's an example. We recently settled a case for policy limits of $100,000 where our client sustained a back injury. It was a rear end car accident case. Our client went to the emergency room, saw his doctor and was referred for a course of physical therapy. The case was litigated for over two years. Nationwide Insurance Company insured the at fault driver. Nationwide offered money to settle the case, but nowhere near the policy limits. Through the excellent efforts of our team, we were able to get our client seen by an orthopedic surgeon, and he wrote an expert narrative report outlining exactly what injuries our client sustained, what pain he could expect in the near term and long term future, and what treatment would be required going forward. Upon receiving the report, Nationwide tendered their policy limits.

In addition, we were able to use that same report to get more compensation for our client through his own insurance company since he purchased Underinsured Motorist coverage on his own insurance policy.

WE KNOW INJURY LAW

Because PA laws allow many medical providers to file claims for unpaid medical bills in accident claims, even when a client has health insurance, settlement funds can be 'attacked' by medical 'liens' at the end of a case.

Clients are often unaware of this until it comes to the settlement portion of their case. As lawyers who practice injury law, we know the ins and outs of how to navigate the challenges these laws present.

Recently, we had a case where a hospital sought $50,000 against our client's claim, and hired an attorney. We successfully challenged the lien showing the attorney for the hospital different statutes and laws. Eventually, the attorney agreed to waive the lien, so our client did not have to pay from the settlement. It was a huge win for us and our client!

We go above and beyond to fight for our clients. Our skill and passion for pursuing the best outcome resulted in this huge win.
