July 4th Weekend Historic Philadelphia Must Sees

For Carpey Law history buffs out there, check out our favorite museums and historical sites this July 4th weekend: The Constitution Center, Independence Hall, Museum of the American Revolution. Historic Philadelphia is where history actually happened!

More Things to Do

Betsy Ross House: America's most famous flag maker greets guests at her 18th-century upholstery shop, part of a tiny dwelling where visitors learn about Ross' life and legend, and enjoy programs, storytelling and activities.

Elfreth's Alley: Elfreth's Alley boasts 300 years of history on its charming cobblestone road lined with quaint row houses. While a modern city has sprung up around it, the alley preserves three centuries of evolution through its old-fashioned flower boxes, shutters, Flemish bond brickwork and other architectural details. Don't miss Bladens Court, a "secret" alley off of Elfreth's Alley.

The African American Museum in Philadelphia:

This museum has as a permanent core exhibition, Audacious Freedom, a groundbreaking historic and cultural display spanning two floors and presenting the stories of African Americans such as Richard Allen, Octavius Catto and Harriet Tubman through a series of informative and interactive presentations. The upper galleries host a rotating calendar of special exhibitions.

Franklin Square: Enjoy the outdoors at this fun-filled park named in honor of Benjamin Franklin. Take a mini-tour of Philadelphia as you putt-putt your way through the city's iconic sites during a round of Philly Mini Golf, or enjoy a nostalgic ride on the Parx Liberty Carousel, a classic tribute to Philadelphia's great heritage of carousel-making. There's also a fountain (renovated in 2019 to feature seasonal water shows and nighttime light shows!), a SquareBurger food stand and lots of open space to lounge or run around.

The President's House: Before the White House, there was The President's House, home to both George Washington and John Adams, when Philadelphia was the capital of the United States from 1790 to 1800. The open-air President's House exhibit commemorates the nation's first executive mansion and reveals a long-observed glimpse into the lives of the enslaved Africans who toiled at the house during Washington's presidency.

Museum of the American Revolution: Just steps from Independence Hall, the Museum of the American Revolution traces the evolution of the American colonies from the earliest days of unrest through a legendary war and the improbable victory that led to a new nation. Immersive exhibitions and priceless artifacts include General Washington's original headquarters tent, Revolutionary War weaponry, centuries-old military documents and hundreds of other authentic objects.

National Constitution Center: It's only four pages long, but the U.S. Constitution is among the most influential and important documents in the history of the world. The 160,000-square-foot National Constitution Center dives into all aspects of this amazing document – drafted just a few blocks away – through high-tech exhibits, artifacts and interactive displays.

The Skyrocketing Cost of Medical Care & How It Impacts Settlement Value

Whether you're injured in a car accident, slip and fall accident, or another personal injury incident, the settlement value of your case, and verdict potential, depends largely on the extent of your injuries and your medical care. When it comes to settling personal injury claims, insurance companies take into consideration all of your damages. Medical bills are generally not part of the settlement unless they are "out of pocket," meaning that you paid them. Any medical bills that you do pay become very important.

This is particularly true these days because the cost of health care isn't decreasing, it is increasing. The cost of new innovations in health care are ultimately being passed on to the patient. Emergency room visits are more expensive than they were 10 years ago, X-ray facilities are charging more. This is true in every aspect of health care. So too, medical providers pass on unpaid portions of your bill to you because reimbursements by companies are lower.

It's therefore fair to say that health care costs are skyrocketing.

What does this mean for you if you have a personal injury case? It means higher medical bills lead to higher settlements. We are regularly presenting insurance companies with the increased cost of medical care in our clients' cases as well as the potential for future medical care, and what that will cost our clients. As a result, we are getting more money for our clients.

If you have questions about how your medical bills will affect your case, or our strategies to help increase the value of your case, give us a call. (610)834-6030.

OUR MISSION AT CARPEY LAW

“We empower people to make informed decisions about their legal case.”

Here at Carpey Law we strive to stand out from the “other” law firms by offering advice and direction to anyone who calls our office with a legal issue. Truth is, not all law firms operate like we do. If we can't help you directly, we'll do our best to find you someone who can. As a client once told us, “Carpey Law is the information resource for accident victims in Pennsylvania”. We live by that every day.

If you know anyone who has a legal issue or question, give them this newsletter and tell them to give us a call. We'll help any way we can.

We work by appointment only. Without an appointment, it is unlikely Mr. Carpey would be able to meet with you.

Please utilize our support staff to answer your questions and to give you status reports. Our legal assistants and paralegals are very experienced and will often be able to respond to your requests.
