Carpey Law Has The Technology To Win Your Case

When the world shut down due to COVID-19, many businesses were forced to find new ways to keep the doors open. This, too, applied in the legal world. Court proceedings were postponed. Attorneys scrambled to get their clients' cases back on track. Law firms that heavily relied on in-person meetings struggled when they were no longer able to see their clients face-to-face. Luckily for us, Carpey Law was already using the latest technology to keep winning our clients' cases.

For years at Carpey Law, we have been using video-conferencing technology to communicate with our clients, hold video depositions, as well as other electronic court proceedings. We were already on a cloud-based system so that our work product for clients was safe, secure and backed up. The tech transition with video conferencing and other legal technology during Covid and after was therefore seamless for us.

Communication Is Key!

As a reader of the Carpey Chronicle, you probably already know that communication with our clients is our top priority. We know that our clients want to know what's going on in their case. That's why, in addition to video conferencing to communicate with our clients, we also communicate with our clients using email, phone calls and text. Our office regularly reaches out to our clients to provide updates on their cases, so don't be surprised if you get a text from Stuart Carpey himself.

Skip The Appointment And Get Your Money Faster

In addition, we know that it can be difficult to get to our office at times with work, treatment schedules, and other responsibilities, which is why we use an electronic service for clients to sign paperwork they would otherwise have to come into the office to sign. This makes signing Distribution Sheets and getting your settlement proceeds a breeze!

THE COLD HARD TRUTH

It comes with the territory. Sometimes I have to tell people what they NEED to hear. Not what they WANT to hear. There are times when you have to 'lay it out straight' and explain the good and the bad about a client's case. There are always 'holes' in a case. Even the best personal injury cases have challenges that must be overcome.

The truth is it's tough to tell another person something that you know isn't going to be well received. It would be much easier to try and avoid these difficult conversations. But, a good lawyer can't be shy about 'telling it like it is'. That's just the way it has to be. If you're really looking out for your client's best interests, that is.

Stuart A. Carpey

A Lawyer's Lawyer

When a new client comes in, I get asked all kinds of questions that I'm happy to answer, such as "how much of your work is personal injury?" (all of it), "do you handle 'big' cases?" (yes, many), and "do you go to court?" (yes, and the insurance companies know it). But the best question that I don't get asked is if other attorneys refer personal injury cases to me.

When an attorney calls you and trusts you to handle a personal injury case for one of their clients, that is a real compliment. We are proud to regularly receive calls from other attorneys who refer their clients to us for personal injury matters. It says a lot when people in your industry know you for a particular skill and focus.

LAURA CARPEY'S RECIPE OF THE MONTH

Balsamic Soy-Glazed Chicken Wings

INGREDIENTS

- 4 lbs. of chicken wings
- 2 T olive oil
- 1/2 tsp salt
- 1/2 tsp black pepper
- 3/4 C balsamic vinegar
- 1/4 C soy sauce
- 2 tsp sugar
- 1 T unsalted butter

DIRECTIONS

1. Put oven racks in upper and lower thirds of oven. Line 2 large shallow baking pans with foil. Put pans in oven and preheat over to 500° F.
2. Pat wings dry, then toss with oil, salt, and pepper in a large bowl and divide between

- preheated pans, spreading wings in one layer. Roast, without turning, until golden and tender, about 35 minutes.
3. While wings roast, simmer vinegar, soy sauce, and sugar in a 1 to 1 1/2 quart heavy saucepan, stirring occasionally, until reduced to about 1/3 cup, 12 to 14 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in butter until melted.
4. Remove roasted wings from oven and let stand in pans 1 minute (to make wings easier to remove from foil), then transfer with tongs to a clean large bowl.
5. Pour balsamic mixture over wings and toss to coat well. let stand 5 minutes, then toss again.

Reminder About Our Firm's Communication Policy

About us: We perform very high quality legal work. We are highly competent and we have a highly competent support staff, but we are not perfect. We can make mistakes. We will correct a mistake if we find it or if you point it out.

It is our policy to return phone calls in the order they are received and based on the priority of the situation. If you leave a message, your call will be returned usually within 24 hours. Some clients feel that calling multiple times in a day will get their call answered faster, but that is not the case. Email is the quickest way to get a response from anyone in the office.

We work by appointment only. Without an appointment, it is unlikely Mr. Carpey would be able to meet with you.

Please utilize our support staff to answer your questions and to give you status reports. Our legal assistants and paralegals are very experienced and will often be able to respond to your requests.
